

The OK Boomer Band

OK Boomer is the latest evolution of a trio which formed in 2007, when the established rhythm section of drummer, Jeff Degitz, and bassist, Bob Sweigert, invited guitarist, John Escosa to join them. All three musicians are also singers and, ultimately, it is their vocal collaboration which sets the group apart from the rest of the field.

Jeff Degitz is the visionary who has established the essentially acoustic format, in which the band currently presents a variety of material ranging from traditional pop songs through more contemporary country stylings, a bit of bluegrass material, and some classic rock standards. Jeff has a long list of credits, having anchored a number of regionally well-known bands since beginning his professional music career as a young teen. He is a superb musician and percussionist, and creates an unmistakable, huge pocket from which the band's sound delivers its crowd-pleasing presentation. Jeff's singing voice is distinctive and captivating.

Bob Sweigert, who was a founding member of the well-known "Junkyard Band", is an accomplished bassist. Along with Jeff, he creates a foundation for the group's extraordinary feel. Bob is also the group's technical director, adding his skills in music production to ensure that the band's presentation is clear and clean.

John Escosa is the guitarist/vocalist who helped establish Endgame as one of the premier cover bands in the tri-state region as early as 1972. He has performed with many regionally and nationally acclaimed groups since his professional music career began in the late 1960s.

Jeff, Bob and John bring a level of musicianship to the stage which is rarely heard in a "local/regional" band. You will want to sing along, dance and revel in wonderful music which has brought meaning to your life, as you enjoy The OK Boomer Band.
